DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Roh et al (US Patent No. 6,397,606) in view of Bhatnager (US 2001/0039190). Roh discloses a kimchi refrigerator comprising: a refrigerator microprocessor (40) is connected with a key manipulation unit (41) for receiving an input command from a user, a display unit (42) serves to display an image based on the input command and thereby allowing the user to select an application program for setting up refrigerating and freezing environment. Roh disclosed invention lacks a voice output for output of function settings. Bhatnager teaches a voice output signal from an electronic controller. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilized the voice output signal as taught by Bhatnager within the disclosed invention of Roh for providing a voice / audio message to a user inputting information on a key pad.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
